

SANQUINARY FIGHTING ON IMPORTANT FRONTS

Latest Official Reports Tell of Desperate Battles Waged in Every Great Field.

Hard fighting on all the important battle fronts is shown by the latest official reports, not the least desperate engagements occurring in Serbia where the Teutonic invasion is making further progress, Berlin says.

Field Marshal von Mackensen in Serbia, reports the storming of Vranova mountain, south of Semendria, and of Smolje village east of Pozarevac, while Bulgarian troops are declared to have forced frontier passes at several points on the southern border and to have taken the eastern forts of Zajevar, five miles over the border in Serbia and about 40 miles northeast of Nish.

Special dispatches from Nish estimate the Teutonic losses in the Serbian campaign up to Thursday night as 25,000 killed and 60,000 wounded. These figures say that a German army attempting to turn to Serbian right wing at Semendria was driven back into the Danube marshes near the Semendria fortress. Heavy reinforcements for the Germans in the Pozarevac section are reported on the way.

Great Britain's declaration of war on Bulgaria has been followed by a declaration of a blockade of the Bulgarian ports of Dedeaghtach, Porto Lagos, Maronia and Mesri, on the Aegean sea. Neutral vessels were given 48 hours from Saturday evening to leave the blockaded area.

On the Western front the Germans record the repulse of an attack northwest of Verdun, where the British hold the line and the blocking of French assaults at various points in the Champagne district, notably east of Augerville, where the French are declared to have left more than 600 prisoners and three machine guns in German hands.

German troops also are declared to have carried out a successful move for improving their positions on Hartmanns-Weilerkopf in the Vosges and to have foiled a French attempt to retake positions south of Leintrey.

A vigorous French counterattack in the Vosges enabled them to recapture all their positions on the summit of Hartmanns-Weilerkopf, according to latest official reports from Paris. The French also claim to have taken a small fort previously occupied by the Germans. An official statement from Berlin claims that a German attack made with the object of improving the Teutonic positions on Hartmanns-Weilerkopf was entirely successful, the opposing forces suffering severe losses.

Berlin's account of operations in the East is confined entirely to the recording of repulses of Russian attacks west of Dvinsk and at other points towards the northern end of the line, and in the region of Smorgon. Nothing is said of the operations in Volhynia or in Galicia.

Australia, which has contributed so largely to the costly operations of the entente allies on the Gallipoli peninsula, apparently is much exercised over the suggestion in the house of lords that the Dardanelles enterprise be abandoned. A Sydney dispatch is quoted in a London dispatch as declaring that such a decision would be "evidence of gross incompetence somewhere, for which hardly any punishment would be too great."

The sinking of a Russian schooner laden with coal and iron by a German seaplane in the Gulf of Riga is announced in a Berlin newspaper.

LAND OF COTTON BLOSSOMS BY WINTHROP DAUGHTERS

An Original Play Written by Newberry Girl Will Be Presented in Opera House October 22.

The Winthrop Daughters in Newberry will present in the opera house on Friday, October 22, a play entitled "Land of Cotton Blossoms." This play should especially appeal to Newberry people. It was written by a Newberry girl, Miss Lillian Kibler, together with Miss Posey of Laurens and Miss Bowe of Augusta, her classmates. And the music has been composed especially for the play by Miss Bess Kibler. The cast will consist of more than 100 persons. Tickets will be on sale next week. The Herald and News today presents the cast and a synopsis of the play.

Synopsis.

The scene of the play is laid in a far away and undiscovered country. The Land of Cotton Blossoms, where the word of the king is law. In the southern part of the kingdom lives a peasant girl, Rousolka, who spins cotton. With Rousolka lives Famor, her little brother, who prattles of fairies, and especially of fairies who guard over the cotton fields.

Other peasants of the land tediously seed out the cotton. They are driven on with their work by the Gnome of Cotton Seed, a spirit of tenacious energy, who lives in the cotton hamper. Famine spreads over the northern part of the kingdom. The king decrees that the peasants shall cease their cotton planting until a quicker way is found to seeding the cotton. He commands them to work in the grain fields. The decree comes to this secluded hamlet at the celebration of midsummer's night. Little Famor is distressed, because he says that the Fairy of the Cotton Field will die. Rousolka pleads with Monjik, her lover, to invent a quicker way to seed the cotton and thus save the cotton fields. Monjik makes a vow never to celebrate his wedding feast until he finds a quicker way.

Famor runs away to tell the Fairy of the Cotton Field of the king's decree. The Fairy is deeply grieved because it is a fairy law that the fairy guards an untitled field must die. She summons the King of all the Fairies, who grants her one week longer of life. That night she goes to bid farewell to all her familiar haunts. The Gnome of the Cotton Seed comes out from under his hamper, which has been left on the edge of the field. At first he mocks the fairy band and declares his knowledge of a secret which will save their loves. Then, struck with the submission and beauty of the Fairy of the Cotton Field, he declares his love. The Fairy spurns him.

Monjik becomes discouraged with his invention. He can not discover the secret.

The Gnome determines to give his life for the Fairy of the Cotton Field. The King of all Fairies assures him that it will not suffice. Then the Gnome determines to give up his secret. He draws plans for Monjik while Monjik sleeps. Then the Gnome dies. The king accepts the plans. The Gnome is transformed into the Elf of Snowy Cotton for his sacrifice. The King of the Fairies betrothes the Fairy of Cotton to him. Monjik's vow is thus fulfilled and he celebrates his wedding feast.

G. W. Swittenberg, grocer, 1109 Boyce St., Newberry, says: "Hard work on the farm weakened my kidneys. I had rheumatic pains all through my body and could hardly bend to put my shoes on. I suffered intensely from backache and the kidney secretions passed too often and were scanty and painful. The secretions also contained a heavy sediment that looked like brickdust. I got a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills at W. G. Mayes' Drug Store and the first box helped me. I continued taking them until I was cured."
